

Joe White Given Verdict Over Tate

Tuscaloosa Heavyweight Outpoints Giant Oklahoman in 8 Slow Rounds at Southern Athletic Club Monday Night. Preliminaries Afford Some Fast Gloving.

BY BOB PIGUE.

Joe White, Tuscaloosa, Ala., giant, outpointed Texas Tate, who, despite his name, hails from Oklahonia, in a slow eight round bout at the Southern Athletic club Monday night. White's victory was clean-cut and there was no doubt that he had a sufficient margin over Tate to entitle him to the decision. At the end of the eight sessions Referee Billy Haack hoisted the right mitt of White and awarded him the verdict, which was a popular one. White had four rounds out of the eight to his credit, with Tate winning three and with the remaining canto having been even.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

FAST PRELIMS.

The preliminaries were fast and showed some lusty swatting. Following the batte royal, Black Mandot and Battling Arthur fought four rounds, with Arthur getting the decision. Arthur knocked Mandot down in the section with the decision of the section of the secti

FAVORITE BEATEN.

Tate was the favorite when the fighters entered the ring, but after the second round those who had laid their sale on the big Okiahomian realized that they had picked a lemon. At timer, during the eight rounds Tate appeared as if he really knew how to fight, and would tear into White and land a covey of punches. Then he would settle back and let White do the punching, being content to clinch and cover. White at all times tried to make a fight out of it, and was rushing Tate all the way. White carried the fight to Tate, and several times appeared to have Tate in a bad way, but the glant Oklahomian would come up for air and showed no ill-offects of the punching he had received.

ill-effects of the punching he had received.

Accerding to our way of accounting. Tate had the first round by a small margin; the seventh and eighth by good shades. White had the second, third, fourth and fifth by good margins. The sixth was comparatively even, with hirdle to choose between the two gladiators. In the first round Tate landed a hard right cross that shook White all over, and White came back with a weak right. Tate then jabbed White two or three times, and White was unable to land a return blow of any consequence. But in the second White started off like a whirlwind, and rained rights and lefts to Tate's jaw and mid-section that made the hig Oklahomian cover and clinch. Tate appeared to be grougy at the boil that ended the second. In the third White made Tate miss many of his leads and continued to hore in with his right and left it was White's round by a wide margin.

WHITE HAS FOURTH.

WHITE HAS FOURTH.

The fourth went to White, who socked Tate with everything except the bucket, with Tate resorting to clinching when it was apparent that the punches White was landing were doing him no good. Tate jabbed White several times that served to bring the claret from White's nose. From then on throughout the remainder of the fight White's beak was streaming with gore, and both boys were covered with the crimson at the end of the bout.

In the fifth White had the honors by raining several hard rights that landed on Tate's jaw. Tate jabbed in retailed to a fraw, Murray and Harper swapped several hard rights that landed on Tate's jaw. Tate jabbed in retailed to a fraw, Murray and Harper swapped several hard rights, but both kept an even leed. Hambone Murphy gave the fans the only knockout of the evening when he fifts. They were in a clinch at the bell. The sixth was an even round, with both boys standing toe to toe and swapping wallops. Tate shook White with a hard right cross and White returned the compliment with a right that almost lifted Tate off the floor. Both White and Tate swapped jabe. Tate souked White in the mose beginning the seventh, and a fresh supply of blood started, with Tate continuing to jab the bleeding beezer with no return on the part of White. White was missing badly and appeared tired. White right was missing its mark by inches. It was Tate's round. In the eighth Tate rocked White with hard rights and lefts, that had the Alabamian hunting cover. Tate cut loose all he had, and White took many hard wallops in the closing ression, being unable to do any damage himself. Tate finished the round in strong fashion, with White appearing fired, it was Tate's round by a wide margin.

Referes Haack awarded the decision to White on points, as he had four rounds out of the eight to his credit. Class to Wade Through 1920 Opponents.

Both Junior and Senior divisions of the M. A. A. basketball series advanced through the semifinal stage Monday night at the T. and two very interest-ing and hard-fought games were played. In the senior division Y. M. I. trimmed C. B. C. 18-13. This game was hard fought all the way. In the opener the Juniors put up a nifty article of baskethall.

The Lawler hoys took the lead after about five minutes of play and lead until shortly before the last half ended and it seemed victory was in their grasp. Here Cummings scored four baskets in bewildering rapidity and forged ahead and won, 13-9.

The Lawler boys outpassed the Cummings five but the latter had their eyes on the basket. The playing of Jacques and Lancaster was of the highest order. Cummings was outweighed 10 pounds to the man. Lineup: C. B. C.

It was at one of the clubs around East New York, where I live, that My Champ was discovered. He was a ham and a beaner, if one ever lived, and one night was put on in one of the prelims of the club's weekly show. It was customary to hold dances at this club on other nights, and as some sort of a marked racket had been held a few nights previous, someone discovered a weird-looking false face in the dressing room. Intent on giving the boys out front a laugh, the guy who matched the prelim boys suggested to my charanthe mask into the ring to maid the fans a laugh, and thereby become popular, My champ, in whose head, brain was a foreign substance, consented. He was so dumb he probably would have consented to his own electrocution had that been suggested.

Manager McCloskey Not Yet Satisfied With Hurling Staff. Boston Red Sox and New York Giants Will Perform at Russwood Wednesday Afternoon at 3:30 Q'Clock.

BY BOB PIGUE.

Manager John J. McCloskey of the Tribe is not yet satisfied with his pitching staff. Although the Chick hurling corps is composed of Hugh Canavan, Dazzy Vance, Tiny Goodbred, Bill Thweatt, Pat Albris and Hy Fowlkes, the Chick chieftain is still trying to land another right-hander. A deal is afoot whereby the Tribe will soon have another starboard pitcher, which will mean that there will have to be some tall hustling between the pitching staff before the regular corps is decided upon. Five pitchers will be carried, and there will be seven on the roster, which will leaeve two men to go. Just who it will be will be determined by the showing made by the candidates.

ONE MORE INFIELDER.

One more infielder is being sought by the Chicks. A third baseman is being dickered for by Manager McCloskey to fill this importants herth.

It is simost a certainty that Harry Collenberger will be the Chicks regular shortsmith this season. Harry is fielding well but is not hitting as he should. However, there must be one class B man on the Chick infield, and third base is s more important point than the shortfield, according to the way McCloskey figures it, so Collenberger has about cinched his job.
